

I USE BORREDOM

I could never take boredom gracefully, I sensed it's danger. Boredom could kill me, yet boredom is essential, it is useful.

Once after a week of vacationing, I was fit to be tied, bored stiff. I caught myself cutting, out block of cheddar or turnip, sculptural shapes to serve as shorthand notes, which could be developed later when back in my studio.

IT IS A QUESTION

I am always challenging myself when choosing among my sketches, a model that can be the realize sculpture, that I can feel will represent my inner esthetic beliefs and values. It cannot come from intellectual analyzing; it has to be from guts feeling. That is how I get my answers.
